

Blog

Supporting Children of the Fallen

October 26th, 2017

by Jeffrey M. Williams

As a Pennsylvania family law firm that is dedicated to healthy family outcomes and protecting children's futures, we are committed to giving back to our community in meaningful ways. Over the years, Williams Family Law has supported many inspiring organizations, such as the Bucks County Opportunity Council and BARC Developmental Services. Recently, my partner Robert J. Salzer and I had the opportunity to attend a fundraising gala for an organization that is particularly close to our hearts.

We attended the Marine Corps–Law Enforcement Foundation Annual Philadelphia Dinner and Gala at the SugarHouse Casino on Sept. 30, 2017. The MC-LEF provides scholarship and grant assistance to the children of deceased U.S. Marine Corps and federal law enforcement personnel who have been killed in the line of duty.

The military guest of honor for the evening was none other than White House Chief of Staff and former Marine Corps General John F. Kelly. General Kelly's address was moving for all present. He is a talented orator and stressed the importance of service to the country, both military and non-military.

At Williams Family Law, that is a message we take to heart. We are proud to lend our support to organizations and causes that are that strengthen our communities, particularly Bucks County and Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, where we live and work.

We are particularly proud to have sponsored the MC-LEF gala, all the proceeds of which will go directly to the children of those who paid the ultimate sacrifice for their country. Since its founding in 1995, MC-LEF has raised more than $71 million through sponsorships and donations to benefit nearly 4,000 children of the fallen.

To find out more about this organization we are passionate about, go to www.mc-lef.org.

