

Frequently Asked Questions

What's the difference between a patent and a trademark?

A patent protects new and nonobvious inventions whereas trademarks protect branding associated with goods or services.