Mr. Nadel is experienced in all aspects of patent matters involving bioscience, chemical and mechanical inventions, including patent preparation, prosecution, licensing and litigation. Specific exemplary high-technology fields include biotechnology, human and veterinary pharmaceuticals, nutritional products, inorganic and organic chemistry products and processes, semiconductor wafer processing products and processes, and environmental remediation systems. Other areas include heat exchange systems, water treatment systems, paper making technology, sporting goods and toys.

Mr. Nadel's biotechnology patent work has included preparing and prosecuting diverse types of domestic and foreign patent applications relating to human, animal, plant, microbial and biopesticidal genes and proteins, as well as DNA- and peptide-derived products and methods of treatment. His clients included corporate clients of all sizes (from start-ups to Fortune 100 companies), domestic and foreign academic and research institutions, and individual physicians and other researchers.

A patent attorney, Mr. Nadel has been registered to practice before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. His practice included negotiating, advising with respect to and preparing licenses and technology transfer agreements and other agreements associated with technology practice, such as trade secret and consulting agreements. He has negotiated and prepared licenses involving pharmaceuticals, diagnostic products, veterinary products, nutritional supplements and various other technologies. He also has been involved in investigations concerning due diligence relating to acquisition or other transfers of intellectual property, typically associated with mergers and acquisitions; preparation and prosecution of U.S. and foreign patents; enforcement of patents; defense of clients accused of infringing patent rights of others; and counseling clients in other diverse intellectual property matters.

Mr. Nadel was a member of the Business Advisory Team of the Philadelphia University City Science Center Port of Technology, which advised start-up companies about business, technology, intellectual property and marketing issues, and has been credited with guiding companies from the initial phase of establishment to becoming commercially successful public companies.

Prior to being a founding partner of Panitch Schwarze Belisario & Nadel LLP, he was a partner with Akin Gump Strauss Hauer & Feld, and before that, Mr. Nadel was a founding partner of Panitch Schwarze Jacobs & Nadel, P.C. Before founding that firm, he was a patent attorney and partner at another Philadelphia intellectual property law firm. Previously, he was a biochemist at the National Institutes of Health.

Mr. Nadel was president (2001-2002), president-elect (2000-2001), vice president (1999-2000) and treasurer (1997-1999), and a member of the board of governors (1995-1997) of the Philadelphia Intellectual Property Law Association, and chaired its Federal Practice and Procedures Committee for several years. In addition, he is a member of the American Intellectual Property Law Association, the Intellectual Property Law Section of the American Bar Association and the Philadelphia Bar Association. He also was and plans to remain a volunteer lawyer with the Philadelphia Volunteer Lawyers for the Arts for intellectual property matters, from time to time.

For several years, Mr. Nadel was a vice-president and member of the board of directors of the George Washington University Alumni Association. He served on the National Council of Arts and Sciences, which advises the dean of the Columbian College of Arts and Sciences of the George Washington University. Mr. Nadel also was the president of Congregation Adath Jeshurun, in Elkins Park, Pennsylvania, from 2000 to 2002.

Mr. Nadel was selected a Pennsylvania “Super Lawyer” by Thomson Reuters from 2004-2018, Best Lawyers in America[®] from 2006-2018, received preeminent Martindale-Hubbell[®] Peer Review Ratings[™], and was recognized by Chambers and Partners USA as a “renowned patent attorney whose work in the life sciences industry is well regarded.”

Mr. Nadel received his B.S. in chemistry in 1971 from The George Washington University and his J.D. with honors in 1976 from The George Washington University Law School.

Martindale-Hubbell[®] Peer Review Ratings[™] are issued after a secure online peer review surveys of lawyers across multiple jurisdictions and geographic locations. More information about Martindale Hubbell methodology can be found at <https://www.martindale.com/ratings-and-reviews/>.

The Super Lawyers[®] list is issued by Thomson Reuters under criteria applied by Super Lawyers[®]. A description of the selection methodology can be found at http://www.superlawyers.com/about/selection_process.html.

The Defend Trade Secrets Act: What IP-Driven Companies Need to Know

When we wrote recently about trade secrets, we noted that enforcement in the United States fell largely to state laws modeled on the Uniform Trade Secrets Act (UTSA), first drafted in 1979. With its signing in February 2016 of the Trans-Pacific Partnership, though, the United States obliged itself to enact legislation that gives trade secret protections teeth at the federal level.
